

Help Save the Tab-2!

We are looking for any information related to the Tab-2 aircraft, the second CH-46/KV-107, which was built around 1961.

Specific information about the aircraft that will help place it in its proper historical context would be appreciated.

Specific experiments it may have been used for, or events from its service history would be useful.

The aircraft is slated to be scrapped and we need to establish its historical importance to ensure its place in a museum collection.
